

COULD TURN THE AIRWAVES BLUE

PASSION: Eddie has a unique style of commentary

INTENSE: Geraldine with Eddie and family and friends

MAD FOR IT: Eddie Moroney and fans outside the family pub

BIG HIT: Geraldine with Eddie, whose YouTube clips have enjoyed a revival

RETIRED: Micheál (right)

GAA commentator to take over from Micheál commentator are: "If you know the players and what's at stake, make it exciting. If you've any little stories about them, then share them."

Requests

He gets requests to commentate at matches in Tipperary and Waterford, but has also been known to take the mic at greyhound racing - and even local beauty contests. Eddie said he'd love to have been the commentator during the World Cup qualifier when the hand of Henry dashed Ireland's dreams. "If I'd been commentating I'd have said they should spangle him like a cow - he wouldn't be able to move his legs!"

But Eddie says the real beautiful game is hurling. The local pitch is behind his house and the house itself is covered in Tipp flags, but what really marks it out as Effin'

Eddie's house is the sign outside celebrating Tipp's All-Ireland win over Kilkenny: 'Five in a row me arsel!'

Passion

His next-door neighbour, schoolteacher Tom O'Shea, shares the passion and remembers how he and Eddie turned the field between their houses into a pitch.

"We were advised to plant corn, but we said between us we'd fill it with children - and we did. Between my children, Eddie's children and all the pupils, we could have had a match every day."

Eddie says his big ambition now is to take the mic at Croke Park. "I wouldn't be in the same mould as Micheál Ó Muircheartaigh, but I'm in a mould of my own."

"I'm my own Effin Man."
