

YOU'RE A STAR It's watched by 600,000 people & raises €1,000s but Louis just can't resist sticking the boot in

The X Factor judge Louis Walsh

LOUIS Walsh has taken a swipe at charity You're A Star and branded it as "Not proper television".

The pop svengali, who has got his job back on the judging panel of X-Factor, said he had NOT even watched RTE's answer to the hit UTV show lately.

"I'm in London, doing proper telly! I have not seen it and I could not care less about it," said the outspoken music boss.

He added that he was very busy looking for real talent among the X-Factor hopefuls who have already beaten thousands of others at auditions.

"I'm doing X-Factor Boot Camp all week," he said.

And, while it is tough on the bontenders, the show will be easy to watch when it airs next week.

Louis said the Irish "celebs" who take part in You're a Star wouldn't even get as far as the stage on X-Factor.

But he admitted he had not seen last night's remaining contestants - Nuala Carey, the GAA Alistars and Sean Ban Breathnach - in action... and he said he doesn't want to.

EXCLUSIVE By GERALDINE COMISKEY

"I couldn't care less!" said Louis.

While Louis is ganging up with Simon Cowell and Sharon Osbourne to give X-factor contestants a pasting, You're a Star judges Brian McFadden, Brendan O'Connor and Amanda

X Factor judges Louis Walsh, Sharon Osbourne and Simon Cowell

Brunker will be faced with the task of choosing a winner for Charity You're a Star.

Sean Ban Breathnach and the GAA All-Stars are tipped as favourites to battle out tonight's final.

Former Dublin footballer Barney Rook last week emerged as the real star of the GAA's heroes when he unleashed a crooner's voice.

But madcap gaelgoir Sean won a few new fans when he showed off his knobby knees in a kilt - and reminded a whole generation why they could never learn Irish in school.

Weathergirl Nuala, whose sassy performances were a breath of fresh air throughout the contest, was under a cloud when all three judges said her performance had slipped.

Brendan O'Connor said: "It's not your best".

But Amanda urged her to rev it up for the sake of "girl power".

Paddy Power BOOKMAKER

LATEST ODDS

THE GAA ALL-STARS: favourite at..... 8-15
SEAN BAN BREATHNACH:6-4

OUT: Nuala Carey, The Roses, Sinéad Kennedy, Shane Byrne, Joe O'Shea, Vivienne Connolly, Brendan Courtney, Brent Pope