

E

The WIFE of Brian?

YOU'RE A STAR PRESENTER IS LOOKING OUT FOR LOVE

GIRLS have an extra reason for tuning into Charity You're a Star this year...because hunky presenter Brian Ormond is looking for love.

The cheeky presenter revealed: "I'm single and I'm looking for a woman. I'm definitely available."

And he said having an "other half" would be a nice morale-booster while he's presenting the new series of the show which began last night. "I've got my family in the audience but it would be nice to have a woman too."

The 27-year-old dad-of-one has made sure there will be front-row seats for his daughter, Chloe, 6, his grandmother and his mum and dad.

And Dubliner Brian is crossing his fingers that by the end of the series he might have the love of his life sitting there alongside them.

"It's not that I went on the show just to find love, but it helps to be in the public eye!" he laughs.

While he is already a household name, he says You're a Star is going to net him a wider variety of fans. But he admits that he is as likely to find himself mobbed by grannies as girls his own age.

"It's a show that appeals to all ages."

He adds that he welcomes fans of all ages. "I don't mind it at all when people ask for autographs or to have their pictures taken with me. I'd never throw a strap."

"I can sort of understand it when David Beckham gets fed up because he can't walk down the street, but in my case it's all been nice people. It's a great buzz to be known all over the country."

EXCLUSIVE BY GERALDINE COMISKEY

Brian says presenting the show is a lot less nerve-racking than competing in it.

"When I was a contestant, I used to be in bits before I went on stage. You get really nervous walking out on the stage every night - it doesn't go away."

"I know I'll get butterflies in my stomach before I go on as a presenter, but at least I won't have to impress the judges!"

He adds that he will take the performers' side against the panel. "Ah yeah, you have to. I know what it feels like to be up there in front of Brendan O'Connor."

But he says he is delighted caustic judge Brendan has been kept on. "He's great. People love that sort of stuff."

"And it's good to have Brian McFadden and Amanda Brunker on the panel too."

He hopes friends and fans alike will like his new look. "I've spent all morning shopping and I've got some great suits. They're great for my image."

"This is going to be a show that will appeal to young people."

	TV HOST Joe O'Shea, 37, from Cork, will raise money for RNLI for RNLI Lifeboats.	ODDS 8-1
	WEATHER GIRL Nuala Carey sings for the Alzheimer Society of Ireland.	ODDS 25-1
	RADIO PRESENTER Sean Ban Breathnach, 36, from Connemara will sing for the Carers Ireland.	ODDS 14-1
	RUGBY PLAYER Shane Byrne, 36 will battle it out for GOAL.	ODDS 8-1
	RUGBY PUNDIT Kiwi Brent Pope sings for the IRFU Charitable Fund.	ODDS 8-1
	CLOTHES SHOW PRESENTER Brendan Courneyne, 33, from Temple Street will sing for The Bubbeegum Club.	ODDS 6-1
	MODEL Vivienne Connolly, 33, from Carlow, helping Temple Street Children's Hospital.	ODDS 18-1
	KIDS TV PRESENTERS Sinead Kenny and Simon Deasy from Co Cork will perform for Temple Street Hospital.	ODDS 5-1
	THE ROSES Ex-New York Rose Egenation, 30; ex-Dublin Rose Oria Tobin, 26; and ex-Kilkenny Rose O' Shea, 23, backing The Irish Heart Foundation	ODDS 4-1
	THE GAA ALL-STAR TRIO: Barney Rock, 46, from Kerry; Jack O'Shea, 50, from Kerry; and David Beggy, 41, from Meath, are singing for the Gary Kelly Cancer Support Centre.	ODDS 6-1